The Martin Family Quarterly is published in the interest of everyone researching the Martin family surname and related families. It is our purpose to provide complete and accurate information. The information in the quarterly will be divided into the two broad classifications of "clues or family contributions" and documented facts.

QUERIES: Will be published free for all subscribers limited to one query per issue per subscriber with a maximum of 100 words. Additional space will be provided at the rate of 10¢ per word. The rate for non-subscribers and additional queries will be at the rate of 15¢ per word. All queries must be typed or legibly printed and should include sufficient specifics to clearly identify the ancestor in question (birthplace, marriages, children, residences, etc.)

As a special service to our subscribers the editor will research county census records with the emphasis placed on those counties receiving the largest number of inquiries.

The Martin Family Quarterly is published in May, August, November and February with a subscription rate of $5.00 per year. Texas residents please add 5% sales tax (25¢).

RESEARCH IN TENNESSEE

BY WILLIAM LUSK CRAWFORD

AS PRESENTED IN A LECTURE TO THE LOCAL HISTORY & GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY, DALLAS, TEXAS, ON JUNE 27, 1974.

To research Tennessee Genealogical Records and find out more about our ancestor, it is necessary first to understand some of the history of what is now the State of Tennessee.

Tennessee is a rectangular area with the Blue Ridge Mountains to the east, the plateau of Kentucky to the north, the Mississippi River to t west and the more or less level plains of Alabama and Mississippi to t south.

The early migrations to Tennessee were made almost exclusively through the gaps and passes in the northeast corner and over the mountains fr North Carolina.

Tennessee was considered a part of the State of Virginia until Virgin was partitioned in 1663 and became the Western District of the North Carolina Colony. During this period, it was referred to as the "Terr tory South of the Ohio" and had a Territorial Governor. Tennessee be came a state in 1796. The first attempt to establish settlements was made by Virginia when they built Fort Loudon in present Monroe County 1757. A few pioneer families moved in, but three years later it was abandoned when the Cherokee War broke out.

The "Long Hunters" came in and out of this area and the first actual settlement was in 1769 when William Bean from Pittsylvania County, Vi ginia built on Boone's Creek, near the Watauga River in what he thoug was Virginia. He was joined by several families from North Carolina. By 1771, there were four settlements in northeast Tennessee...the fir of these was BEAN'S WATAUGA SETTLEMENT.

The majority of these settlers were Regulators fleeing North Carolina after their defeat in Orange County, North Carolina; they thought the were settling in Virginia but were actually in the Western District o North Carolina.

The second settlement was in the region from the present Virginia sta line to the South Fork of the Holston River. The third settlement wa established by Captain Evan Shelby of Maryland and was west of the Holston River near the present town of Rogersville and known as the CARTER VALLEY SETTLEMENT. The majority of the early families were friends of Captain Shelby, from Maryland. The fourth settlement was established by Jacob Brown on the north side of the Nollichucky River and known as the NOLLICHUCKY SETTLEMENT. The majority of the early families in this settlement were from North Carolina.

It is very important to consider where the people came from to estab these early settlements when hunting for your ancestors.

A family researcher is usually interested in one of three things at s stage. First, where did they come from? Second, where did they liv Third, where did they go? For these reasons, we need to know the tr into, through and out of Tennessee. Since Tennessee was settled from the northeast corner and over the mountains of North Carolina, we need to begin in Virginia. Families did not go from Maryland or Virginia to Tennessee in one continuous move as we might go now. They stopped, established homes, raised crops, buried their dead, had children born and other things that still happen to our present families. The trip might take a year, ten years or two or more generations.

MIGRATION TRAILS:

Migration trails from Virginia seemed to center at one point before branching off to Tennessee, North Carolina or Kentucky. This was at Wolf Hills, now known as Abingdon, Virginia, in Washington County. Trails all fed into the great Valley of the Shenandoah River, following what is roughly present Interstate Highway 81 and old Route 11 from Hagerstown, Maryland to Bristol, Tennessee.

If you have Scot-Irish ancestors, you will find that they, in most cases, came down the Valley from Pennsylvania with stops in Frederick County, Augusta County or Washington County, Virginia. The best reference book on the Scot-Irish Migrations is "Records of Augusta County, Virginia 1745-1800" by Lyman Chalkey, in three volumes. Early publications referred to these books as the "Chronicles of the Scot-Irish Settlement in Virginia."

The Migration Trails in Virginia crossed the Blue Ridge Mountains at the Gaps. ASHBY GAP led to Winchester in Frederick County; LURAY GAP to New Market in Shenandoah County; SWIFT RUN GAP to Rockingham County; AFTON GAP to Staunton, Augusta County; ROANOKE GAP from Lynchburg, Campbell County through Bedford County to Roanoke County and FANCY GAP near Hillsville, Carrol County and Wytheville, Wythe County. All these trails converged at present Abingdon, Washington County, Virginia.

Prior to the Revolutionary War, there was very little migration from North Carolina to the Western District, now Tennessee. There was an Upper Crossing of the mountains at BOONE'S GAP from Zionsville, Watauga County, North Carolina to Trade, Johnson County, Tennessee. Further south, there was a very rough crossing from Morgantown, North Carolina.

In 1791, the FRENCH BROAD TRAIL was opened between Ashville, North Carolina through Madison and Buncombe Counties, North Carolina and Knox and Sevier Counties, Tennessee to Knoxville. This is now Interstate 40.

In 1785, North Carolina sent a force of 300 soldiers in to present Tennessee to protect the New Settlements. AVERY TRACE was opened through the counties of Roane, Cumberland, Putnam, Smith, Wilson and Davidson. The soldiers were paid in land and for the first time, there was some protection for the settlers. This caused the migration from the Atlantic section of North Carolina of many wealthy families as well as families and friends of soldiers serving in the protective forces.

The Great Indian War Path ran along the Valley of the Tennessee River. This trail ran through the counties of Bradley, McMinn, Monroe, Blount, Sevier, Jefferson, Hamblen and Hawkins, Tennessee. Many of the early families came into the above counties down this trail, but also many

used the trail to move on into present Alabama and Georgia. Others fr Georgia came up the trail.

The NATCHEZ TRACE from Natchez, Mississippi to Nashville, Tennessee wa originated by returning farmers and others who floated their cotton, lumber and other products up the Cumberland River to the Ohio, then do the Ohio to the Mississippi and the market at Natchez, Mississippi.
Coming back up the TRACE, they many times decided there was better lan and prospects in Mississippi, so they moved to Mississippi and later t East Texas.

There were other trails through Tennessee that should help as a guide your ancestor hunt. If you can find where their neighbors went, they probably were traveling together.

Revolutionary Service in North Carolina was rewarded by land grants ir East and Middle Tennessee. Information on these grants is given in "North Carolina Land Grants in Tennessee 1778-1791" by Cartwright and Gardiner. The grants are on file in the State Archives. West Tenness Land Grants have been published in part since 1967 in "Ansearchin' New the publication of the Tennessee Genealogical Society. These grants a on microfilm at the State Archives.

Military Records are complete for those that served in the various wa since Tennessee became a state. The State Archives has a copy of the Muster Rolls for Tennessee Regiments in the War of 1812. The Roster the Tennessee Chapter of National Society of Daughters of 1812 gives ancestor of each member. The State Library has a card file on soldie who served in the Indian War. This was when the Cherokees were moved west of the Mississippi River. All soldiers who died in the Seminole War are listed in "The Origin, Progress and Conclusion of the Florida War," by John Titcomb Sprague. There is also a card file in the Stat Archives on Tennessee Soldiers in the Mexican War.

Civil War records for Tennessee are very complete for research due to several actions taken by the state. In 1891, a Pension Law was passe and all applications are available in the State Archives. In 1905, Widow's Pensions were issued and these applications are on file in th State Archives and contain much genealogical information. The most i portant, if your ancestor was involved, is questionaires sent to all living veterans in 1914 through 1920. These are in the Manuscript Division of the State Library.

Earlier, I said that one of the things we were interested in was wher did they go? I will use the migrations of some branches of my family to illustrate how they came to Texas:

BOWENS...came from Pennsylvania to Botetourt County, Virginia ca. 174
Davidson County, Tennessee ca. 1785; to Lebanon, Ohio ca. 1805, retur ed through Tennessee to Limestone County, Alabama ca. 1825, then to R River County, Texas in 1840.

CRAWFORD...from Virginia to Tennessee in 1798, Jackson County(?) to Monroe County, Kentucky in 1800, then to Denton County, Texas in 1855
A part of the family came to Texas by way of Moniteau County, Missour

GRAY...from North Carolina to Monroe County, Tennessee ca. 1820, to Alabama, then to Rusk County, Texas ca. 1845.

Who knows, my family may have been with yours on some of these trails through Tennessee and on to Texas!

SUGGESTED BIBLIOGRAPHY OF REFERENCES:

By all means you should be familiar with the material available in the TENNESSEE STATE LIBRARY AND ARCHIVES in Nashville. On request, they will send you the following:

1. "An Introduction to the Tennessee State Library and Archives."
2. "Genealogical Source Materials in the State Library and Archives."
3. "Guide to the Use of Genealogical Material in the Tennessee State Library and Archives."

They will do some free search for you, but do require you to follow certain guidelines. I would suggest before submitting your request that you ask for a copy of their instructions that has a place on the back for making a request for a search.

There is an additional service provided by the State Library and Archives: Their Inter-Library Loan. The publication, "Writing on Tennessee Counties Available on Inter-Library Loan from the Tennessee State Library and Archives, State Library Division may be available from a genealogical library near you.

THE FOLLOWING PUBLICATIONS ARE AVAILABLE ON TENNESSEE

A. "East Tennessee Historical Society Echoes"
(They published the early Tax List of the East Tenn. Counties)
"Ansearchin' News," published by the Tenn. Genealogical Society.
(I consider this publication tops in its field)
"Tennessee Historical Quarterly"
"Tennessee Researcher"
"Tennessee Valley Historical Review," now called Historical Review and Antique Digest.
"Valley Leaves," published by the Tennessee Valley Genealogical Society in Huntsville, Ala., but includes material on Tennessee Valley in Tennessee, as well as Alabama.

B. COMMENTARY: "Genealogical Research Sources in Tennessee," by Hathaway. This is the most complete publication I have ever found on research in the state. I have only touched briefly on the material in this book. You will also find the following: A list of all Tennessee Libraries with a listing of Collections and Manuscripts they have. A chapter on Funeral Homes giving the name of one in each community and what you may find and how you should approach this type of research. Church records with a listing of histories of individual churches and information on the spread of each church denomination throughout the state. Cemetery records with a list of those counties that have their cemeteries listed on microfilm in the LDS Library. Land records giving the location of land that was effecte by different grants since the founding of the state. List of Tennessee Historical and Genealogical Societies. A list of Tennessee newspapers and those available on film. A list of county histories, also county records with the oldest date of the individual record. Finally, an explanation of the different courts in Tennessee and what records they ha that you would find of interest in research.

Once I was a normal person
Before I climbed my family tree
Now my forbearers are acquainted
They make a battle ground of me
My great grandpa Pat from Ireland
Makes me dance with happy feet
But my English one, Lord Ogle
Walks sedately down the street
Then my Swedish grandma, Olga Gives away each cent I make
While my Scottish grandma shudders
At the things I waste and break
My great grandma from Paris
Laughs and flirts the live long day
But my great grandma from Plymouth
Turns my head the other way
Thus they differ, thus they argue
How I wish they could agree
For I never can determine
Which of them is really me.
